

Notes:

- The instructions shown in the document are explained in a general way, so they don't specify the existence of certain classes or attributes.
- A special class is created for goals and another for cards, because even though the instructions say they have the same attributes, it's considered that the card can vary in color, so the attribute is added to the Card class.
- Taking into account the diagram made by the students and the diagram made by the teacher, ideas from both were used to complement the classes, relationships, and multiplicity in the previous diagram.
